The Problem

- 1 Real estate remains inaccessible to most people due to high entry costs.
- 2 Individuals lack the capital or expertise to acquire income-generating shortlets.
- 3 Shortlet owners often need funding to upgrade or expand their properties.
- 4 Traditional models do not allow shared, low-barrier, and passive property ownership.

✓ Opportunity

1 Urban shortlet demand is booming, driven by tourism, remote work, and business travel.

✓ Opportunity

2 Nigeria's shortlet market has experienced a 263% growth in recent years.

✓ Opportunity

3 Real estate remains one of the most secure asset classes.

✓ Opportunity

4 A cooperative model can unlock access for thousands of aspiring investors.

The Opportunity

The Solution - Coworthy

Coworthy Capital is a real estate investment cooperative that empowers everyday people to co-invest in premium shortlet apartments.

Members pool funds to acquire and develop rental properties.

Properties generate income shared proportionally among members.

Members enjoy voting rights, transparent reporting, and passive earnings.
